A fierce war is taking place between Israel and Hamas terrorists. It seems that the Shiite Crescent, which is being suffocated by the formation of "the Middle Asia-Azerbaijan-Armenia-Turkey belt" and "the India-Saudi Arabia-Israel" belt and is practically suffocated, is doing crazy things to save itself.

As usual, the Mullah-Pasdars regime of Iran came into action, and as usual, the Arab militias of the Mediterranean coast participated in Iran's regime plan.

We all know who the losers of this war are, but the seditious nature of the Palestinian terrorists has closed the path of reason to them. Unfortunately, a wolf can never get used to the nature of living peacefully with humans.

Therefore, I have always emphasized that politics does not mean tolerating bad things. From my point of view, politics means finding new ways to progress and advance progressive goals. The world of politics is not a jungle. Civilization is based on avoiding the norms of the jungle.

This should be understood by idiots like Senator Chris Murphy, Robert Malley, Josep Burrell, and their associates. Sitting on an expensive sofa and using an iPhone 15 may be a sign of being in the position of a civilized person, but it does not mean having civilized thoughts.

This morning, many people were killed in Israel just because of the fake sympathy, hypocrisy, and poisoned thoughts of politicians who are businessmen and not experts in managing the world. Their world is summed up in their pockets, and Iran's mullahs know this exactly, that's why they are safely engaged in sedition in the world and oppressing people inside Iran.
